

All the dirt we could dig up

The Groundhog Underground Press

February 2, 2007

Volume XIX

Spring Edition

2006: A Year in Pictures

Our year started in Seattle in the midst of huge changes: Selling our house, cleaning out forgotten corners, selling off long held treasures and packing everything else for our move in late March to “the old home-stead” in Connecticut. Now with the one year mark approaching, that seems a life-time ago and we find ourselves still cleaning out forgotten corners and wondering if snow will ever come to New England.

April: Nephew Dan with Jen and their twins Sam and Evan

May: Ruby and David canoeing with friends in Massachusetts

June: Class of 1970, Cromwell High All-School Reunion. That's me in the red jacket.

October: David and Ruby above, and with with the Smale and Wolff families, at our niece Sara Wolff's wedding to Tadd Wheeler in Mt. Shasta, California.

The Family Homestead: A "Before and during" shot and the After picture.

The Livingroom: Shortly after arrival and again After painting.

August: The Family reunion at the Homestead. The Butlers do "the Wave."

December:
David and nephew Andy.
Sister Jackie with the twins.
My Dad with Sam.
Dan with Evan.

On the cover: Ruby and I pose in front of a fraction of the boxes that we packed. On the right a quick view of the cross-country trip.

© February 2, 2007. David and Ruby